

Christian Shaffmaster

Christian Shaffmaster lives in Lansing with his wife Melissa and their dog Maxwell. He has worked in Development for Cornell University for over 13 years, currently in the Office of the Vice Provost for International Affairs. Before this role, Christian worked at Cornell Law School. Christian has served on the Lansing Community Library Board for the last year as an active member of the policy and finance committees. He has worked to maximize resources to help advance the Lansing Community Library's mission to maintain and improve the Lansing community's citizens' quality of life. Christian has spent his entire career working to promote education and values the Lansing Community Library's work and its services to the local community.

Christian also volunteers as a member of the stewardship committee for the First Congregational Church of Ithaca and as a member of the alumni advisory board for his alma mater, Lycoming College. Christian holds an MA from Marywood University and a BA from Lycoming College.